P.C.:

Petition is directed against the order passed by the Appellate Court declining to condone the delay in filing an appeal. The order condoning the delay or declining to condone the delay is in the discretion of the court. Therefore, unless the writ court finds that the discretion has been abused by the court, the writ court will not be justified in interfering with order.

2. I have gone through the present order. It is an elaborate order. I do not find that the court has abused the discretion. Petition is rejected.
